Felony Evade

Location: Cabrillo Avenue and Hoover Drive

An officer observed a vehicle traveling slowly through a neighborhood near Cabrillo Avenue and Hoover Drive occupied by two male subjects. Given the hour and the fact that the vehicle was full of construction equipment, commonly stolen during burglaries, this peaked the officer's interest.

A DMV database check revealed the vehicle was stolen out of San Jose. While following the vehicle to allow additional officers to arrive before initiating a high-risk traffic enforcement stop, the vehicle continued onto southbound highway 101. With support nearby, the officer activated the patrol vehicle's overhead lights and sirens. The vehicle fled the area and was pursued to the area of Santa Clara Street and 17th Street in San Jose where it was lost. Members of SCPD unsuccessfully combed the area for the vehicle and/or subjects.

The San Jose Police Department recovered the unoccupied vehicle at approximately 0045 hours. The subjects remain unknown and at large.

Meanwhile, the Police Department staff's extra police officers on weekends where party activity is predicted. These officers handle all calls related to party complaints in the Santa Clara University footprint. The primary focus of the officers is disturbance calls disrupting the peace of the neighborhood, amplified music and loud and unreasonable noise after 10 p.m.

Officers responding to any type of complaint complete a "First Response" notice. The first, or subsequent, response documents the facts related to the party complaint and identifies the resident(s) hosting the party. These reports are forwarded to the Community Response Team (CRT) who conducts an analysis of each first response. This analysis considers previous calls for service at the address, the size of the party, whether underage drinking was occurring, and other factors related to the City Code. CRT then issues citations to the property owner and/or property management company as the responsible party. The penalty amount for a first response is $500 and are graduated up to $1,000 per response if five or more occurrences take place within one year.

This past weekend, the Police Department issued 12 first responses. Following an analysis of the first responses, CRT issued eight citations totaling over $4,000 in fines.
